

Every day, CSEA members perform every kind of job, in every part of New York.

Most CSEA members are public employees working for New York State, its counties, cities, towns, villages, school districts, library systems, public authorities and other public entities. We also have a growing number of private sector employees in fields such as childcare and human services.

CSEA members drive your kids to school, clear and maintain your roads, administer justice, address your health care needs, care for New York's most vulnerable people, respond to emergencies and maintain public safety.

These are just a few of the ways CSEA members touch your life.

CSEA members are also your family, friends and neighbors. We work hard to improve our communities, supporting numerous organizations and causes with time, money and talent.
